The spring meeting of the Berkeley Division was called to order at 3:10 p.m. on Wednesday, April 22, 2015, in Sibley Auditorium, Bechtel Engineering Center, pursuant to call. Professor Panos Papadopoulos, chair of the Berkeley Division, presided. A quorum of 50 Senate members was confirmed. A request to extend the meeting was approved.

I. Minutes (Enclosure 1)

ACTION: The minutes of the October 29, 2014 meeting were approved as presented.

II. Announcements by the President

President Janet Napolitano was unable to attend.

III. Other Announcements

A. Chancellor Nicholas Dirks

Chancellor Dirks reported on the financial challenges facing UC, and on the status of negotiations by the “Committee of Two”. UC’s governance structure, funding model, and other processes are being re-evaluated in light of the constrained financial status.

Berkeley continues to plan for the future, developing the Arts, the Undergraduate Initiative, and expanding Berkeley’s global footprint through efforts such as the Berkeley Global Campus (BGC). The Senate will be involved in the next planning phase focusing on the BGC’s academic and research programs. Bowles Hall is being renovated as a residential college and could become a model for others on campus. Chancellor Dirks highlighted Berkeley’s contributions to research and its innovative research climate that supports interdisciplinarity and collaboration.

The Chancellor thanked Division Chair Papadopoulos for his service this year in shared governance.

B. Berkeley Division Chair Panos Papadopoulos

Division Chair Papadopoulos highlighted Divisional honors approved this year:

- The 2015 Berkeley Faculty Service Award will be presented to Professor George C. Johnson (Mechanical Engineering) and Professor Emeritus Harry N. Scheiber (Law). (See Enclosure 3)
- The 2016 Martin Meyerson Berkeley Faculty Research Lecturers are Professor Mark Griffith (Classics/Theater, Dance and Performance Studies) and Professor Pamela Samuelson (Information/Law). (See Enclosure 4)

Updates were presented on other current issues of concern to the Senate:

Research Administration staff will receive additional training. A “PI portfolio” to improve research financial planning is under development. Chief Financial Officer Rosemarie Rae was commended for her assistance with Travel and Entertainment processes. CSS Chief Operating Officer Peggy Huston was commended for her work on Human Resources issues. Few problems with CSS Information Technology have been reported.

• Freshman admissions: A new freshman admissions policy, two years in the making, has been approved by the Committee on Admissions, Enrollment, and Preparatory Education (AEPE) and Divisional Council (DIVCO). Those recognized for their contributions to the effort were: AEPE co-chairs Tom Goldstein and Richard Rhodes and the AEPE committee, Associate Vice Chancellor for Admissions & Enrollment Anne De Luca, and Assistant Vice Chancellor and Director of Admissions Amy Jarich. Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost Claude Steele chaired the Admissions Data Working Group. (See Enclosure 2)

C. ASUC Academic Affairs Vice President Mon-Shane Chou

Mon-Shane Chou is a senior in sociology, and vice president for academic affairs of the Associated Students of UC (ASUC). She summarized ASUC’s three highest priorities for this past year:

• Health and wellness: The ASUC is working to reduce the stigma associated with mental health issues so that students will more readily seek help, and plans to conduct an undergraduate survey. The students have approved a fee increase to fund wellness activities.

• Food security: A survey found that many students may be skipping meals because of financial constraints. The ASUC is working with several units within the administration to address the issue.

• Lower Sproul Plaza renovation: The completion of the renovation next year is eagerly anticipated. Vice Chancellor for Undergraduate Education Catherine Koshland and Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Harry Le Grande were commended for their support.

The newly-elected ASUC officers for next year are: Yordanos Dejen, ASUC president; Marium Navid, external affairs vice president; Lavanya Jawaharlal, executive vice president; and Melissa Hsu, academic affairs vice president.

IV. Special Orders-Consent Calendar

For proposed legislative amendments, additions to the current text are noted by an underline; deletions to the current text are noted by a strikethrough line. Per Division bylaws the consent calendar is approved in the absence of a quorum.

The Committee on Rules and Elections reviewed the following legislation and found it to be consonant with Berkeley Division bylaws and regulations. Divisional Council (DIVCO) also approved the proposed legislation.
A. Proposed amendments to Berkeley Division Bylaw 4 governing Divisional Council
At its fall meeting the Berkeley Division enacted a bylaw to constitute an Undergraduate Council (UGC), charged with oversight of matters related to the welfare of undergraduate students. These include, but are not limited to, the review of academic units that offer undergraduate programs (a task presently delegated to CEP) and the approval of new undergraduate degrees and other undergraduate programs, student life issues revolving around residential living, mentorship and counseling, and health and wellness. Given the UGC’s scope and the importance of undergraduate affairs, DIVCO proposes that UGC chair serve ex-officio on DIVCO, and that the membership be expanded accordingly.

4. DIVISIONAL COUNCIL (En. 10.89, CC. 3.92, 5.1.14; Am. 11.13.03, 11.8.07, 4.22.10, 10.29/14)

B. Proposed amendments to Berkeley Division Regulation A230

The Council of Undergraduate Deans proposes the following revision of Berkeley Division Regulation A230 governing Special Studies, to allow lower and upper-division students alike to take all special studies courses. Currently, Regulation A230 limits enrollment in courses numbered 98 and 99 to students who have completed fewer than 60 units. In addition, course number 97 is not explicitly mentioned in the policy, even though it is currently being used for special studies courses. The amendment would add it for reasons of consistency and comprehensiveness.

IX. University and Faculty Welfare (Discussion only)

A. Update on the Student Information Systems Replacement Project
Interim Dean of Undergraduate Studies Bob Jacobsen provided an update on the Student Information Systems Replacement Project. Portions of the system have already been activated, and the registration system will be ready to roll out this fall. This project is critical for improving security for sensitive student information and improving connectivity among student-related academic and business functions. Dean Jacobsen elaborated on how the new systems will address four of the Senate’s priorities: curriculum management; individual program planning; assessment of prerequisites and wait listing; and program and enrollment management. Data gathered by these new systems can be used to improve how Berkeley serves students. Policy regarding access to student advising records is still undecided and must be determined within the next six months. Division Chair Papadopoulos commended Dean Jacobsen on his stewardship of this project.

B. Size and cost of campus administration
Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance John Wilton presented the results of a study on the size and distribution of administrative staff on campus and changes to administrative staffing levels over the past five years. Berkeley financial data for the last 10 years show that Berkeley has a revenue problem, but has maintained a low rate of growth in expenses and is performing well compared to other UC campuses. Only service and research staff have increased over the past decade. In most categories, Berkeley’s staffing is below UC averages.

A detailed comparison of staffing by units was conducted at the Senate’s behest and involvement, using matched human resource and budget data sources. (Berkeley is the only campus that can currently disaggregate its human resource data to enable these comparisons, although UC will soon adopt those definitions.) The data was fascinating but extremely complex, and the context of the changes observed was important. Increases in technical and support staff reflected the larger employment picture and the need to serve Berkeley’s expanded student body. During the same time, the number of executives declined.

In an open discussion, opposing conclusions were presented, but the vice chancellor defended the study by saying the conclusions were backed up by data and could be understood in the campus context. In response to a concern about protecting the academic mission, Vice Chancellor Wilton observed that state funding was now even more restricted to core functions than before, and that
The data will be used for continued analysis of staffing levels into the future, and will be accessible to the Senate for further examination. Division Chair Papadopoulos expressed appreciation for the vice chancellor’s willingness to undertake this study and work with the Senate.

C. Strategies for evaluating teaching at UC Berkeley (Enclosure 5)
A panel was held on improving the evaluation of teaching and to more closely adhere to the APM 210.1.d mandate for “clearly demonstrated evidence of high quality teaching” as “an essential criterion for appointment, advancement, or promotion.” The three panelists, Professors Glynda Hull (Education), Juan Pestana (Civil and Environmental Engineering), and Barbara Spackman (Italian Studies/Comparative Literature), serve as chairs of relevant divisional committees.

Professor Spackman, chair of the Committee on Budget and Interdepartmental Relations (BIR), addressed BIR’s tenure review process. BIR supports the proposal for a teaching dossier made by the Committee on Teaching (COT) and any other means to provide better context on teaching.

COT Chair Pestana described the proposal and COT’s intent to create a more comprehensive record of teaching at three critical review points in the career: midcareer, promotion to tenure, and promotion to full professor. He reported that the proposal was unanimously endorsed by DIVCO.

Professor Hull, chair of the Committee on Educational Policy (CEP), expressed CEP’s support for the proposal. The teaching dossier would better capture the range of pedagogical methods used by instructors.

During the open discussion, there was wide support for implementing teaching dossiers. Most who commented on student evaluations agreed they had value, but should not be used as the sole basis for evaluating teaching effectiveness.

There should be continued discussion on improving the teaching evaluation process.
