

DRAFT
MINUTES OF THE MEETING
BERKELEY DIVISION OF THE ACADEMIC SENATE
THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 2021

The spring meeting of the Berkeley Division was called to order at 3:10 p.m. on Thursday, April 29, 2021, via Zoom videoconference, pursuant to call. Professor Jennifer Johnson-Hanks, chair of the Berkeley Division, presided. Quorum of 50 Senate members was confirmed and the agenda was approved.

I. Minutes

Minutes of the October 29, 2020 meeting of the Division (Enclosure 1)

Minutes of the November 30, 2020 emergency meeting of the Division (Enclosure 2)

ACTION: The minutes of the October 29, 2020 and the November 30, 2020 meetings of the Division were approved as amended.

II. Announcements by the President

President Michael V. Drake was unable to attend.

III. Other Announcements

A. Chancellor Carol Christ

The Chancellor began by thanking faculty, staff and students for their imagination, creativity, and diligence throughout the “dark cloud” that is the COVID-19 pandemic. One of the silver linings of the pandemic is the learning opportunities that have been created as a result. For example, learning the ways that remote instruction enhances some areas of the teaching and learning experience, and how to continue to utilize remote instruction after the return to campus to free up some of the “bottlenecks” in the curriculum.

Return to work: Staff have expressed a desire to work on a hybrid schedule post-COVID. There are several committees working to develop a set of policies to keep the health of the Berkeley community as well as the quality of research and instructional enterprise secure.

Admissions: There were a record number of applications for the incoming freshman class, at 112,000. Chancellor Christ explained that while this is wonderful news, it exacerbates the problem that paints Berkeley as impossible to get into. Two possible ways to increase enrollment – and increase revenue – are to use remote instruction to allow students to take some work online, and the second is to have a “satellite” campus, such as Mills College.

Mills: Mills College was in a fragile financial place before the pandemic. Berkeley has been involved in conversations with Mills in the past several months about whether UC – not just the Berkeley campus—could use the Mills campus extensively. UC President Drake has expressed that he'd want students from all campuses to enjoy Mills' campus. However, there are still many things that need to be worked out and resolved.

Moffett Field: The Moffett Field Project is moving forward. There is very exciting faculty leadership.

Budget: The state funding that was cut about one year ago has been restored, but only to 2018-19 levels. Berkeley has received a considerable amount of money from COVID relief packages as well. The campus is using funding as follows: 35 million for housing & dining; about 22 million for COVID-related expenses; 28 million to make up for enrollment lost during pandemic. Campus resolved a structural deficit in 2019, so central reserves are depleted. While there is still a need to continue reduction of 65 million for departments, there will be no furlough of employees.

B. Berkeley Division Chair Jennifer Johnson-Hanks

Chair Johnson-Hanks acknowledged how difficult the past year has been, with violence against people of color as well as COVID-19 suffering. COVID has made Berkeley's core mission vastly difficult, however, things are improving. Vaccination rates in the Berkeley community have been increasing. There is anticipation that nearly all students, staff, and faculty will be fully vaccinated come the fall. The future will look different from the past in several ways. Many staff have been as productive or even more productive during shelter-in-place, and have also reported that they'd prefer to work hybrid once campus returns to in-person.

Chair Johnson-Hanks stated that at beginning of the year, the Senate had one mission, which was to protect the health and well-being of students, faculty, and staff, and she believes that mission has been achieved.

Chair Johnson-Hanks explained that this Division meeting is about pivoting from a year of hardship to a year of hope. She then honored the awardees of the 2020-21 faculty awards and thanked Senate leadership and staff.

Chair Johnson-Hanks announced that the Division Chair and Vice Chair for 2021-22 will be Ronald Cohen and Mary Ann Smart.

C. Graduate Assembly President Luis Tenorio

Graduate Assembly President Luis Tenorio was unable to attend.

These are summarized below but available in full by request to acad_sen@berkeley.edu. Additional non-substantive changes are proposed for clarity, logical flow, or elimination of duplicated language. 809 Major Programs

- o Adds reference to existing upper division unit requirement maximum.

D. Committee on Rules and Elections

The Chair of the Committee on Rules and Elections (R&E), J. Keith Gillless, gave a verbal report to the Senate.

R&E Chair Gillless announced that Martha Olney, Britt Glaunsinger and Adrian Aguilera will serve as elected members of Divisional Council (DIVCO) in the 2021-22 academic year. Kristie Boering, Lydia Sohn, Claudia Ostertag and Niklaus Largier will serve on the Committee on Committees (COMS).

E. Committee on Teaching

Extraordinary Teaching in Extraordinary Times Awards

The Academic Senate Committee on Teaching selected recipients for this award, which is in lieu of the annual Distinguished Teaching Award. The award honors UC Berkeley instructors who in 2020 engaged in or supported excellent teaching despite the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic.

<https://rtl.berkeley.edu/extraordinary-teaching-extraordinary-times-award>

Professor Glynda Hull, the Chair of the Committee on Teaching (COT), gave a verbal report of the committee. Professor Hull explained that COT wanted to honor the efforts of instructors, staff, and students, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic, so the committee created the Extraordinary Teaching in Extraordinary Times Award. Almost 500 nominations were received, and half of those nominations came from students. Over 50 departments were represented, and faculty, staff, and student instructors were celebrated. COT solicited statements and supporting materials from nominators, and received an abundance of instructional artifacts. COT announced that they'd be giving up to 25 awards, but ended up awarding over 40.

Professor Hull recognized those that received the award, and described some of the ways that they used their imagination to sustain a Berkeley-level education during remote learning.

VII. Petitions of Students (None)

VIII. Unfinished Business (None)

IX. University and Faculty Welfare (Discussion only)

A. Extraordinary service/leadership and collaboration in extraordinary times

Chair Johnson-Hanks thanked Senate members for their service throughout the pandemic, and shared a moment of empathy for the difficulties that many have faced during this time. Chair Johnson-Hanks took the time to thank a few Senate committees, who have worked extremely hard in the past year.

Chair Johnson-Hanks honored the contributions to COVID recovery of departments, colleges, and school staff, as well as MSOs, CAOs and all staff members in their respective departments.

DIVCO members commemorated the contributions of faculty and staff in different areas of campus, such as: research, instruction, essential campus workers, and senior campus leadership.

B. Pre-proposal for the College of CDSS

Associate Provost of the Division of Computing, Data Science, and Society Jennifer Chayes presented the pre-proposal for a new college.

Associate Provost Chayes explained the background of CDSS, and how the request to turn CDSS into its own college came to be made. CDSS is undergoing an expansive growth, and a college would provide a stable infrastructure for students.

Associate Provost Chayes expressed that creating a college would open CDSS to financial and educational opportunities that it currently does not have as a division.

Senate members were allotted time to ask questions in an open discussion, and inquired about how CDSS would be managed, the availability of the pre-proposal in writing, and the admissions process.

X. New Business (None)

The meeting was adjourned at 4:53 p.m.
